LINCOLNSHIRE
& SURROUNDING AREAS

Discover Greece

GREECE is a beautiful destination year-round, but the best time to visit depends on what you're looking for.

Spring (April to June) and autumn (September to October) are ideal, offering pleasant weather, fewer crowds, and blooming landscapes or golden sunsets. Summer (July and August) is perfect for beach lovers, with lively island life and warm seas, but it's also the busiest and hottest season. Winter can be quiet and charming, especially in cities and mountain regions, though some islands slow down. Knowing when to go to Greece helps you enjoy the perfect mix of culture, nature, and unforgettable experiences.

Cultural sites

Ancient Olympia: The original site of the Olympic Games, you can immerse yourself in the city where the world's greatest sporting event has its roots. Located in the center of the Peloponnese, you can then take the opportunity to visit the rest of the region.

Mycenae: Perched on a hill overlooking the Argolid - the land of the ancestors - Mycenae is the birthplace of a great civilisation. Don't miss: the Circle of Tombs, the Mycenaean Palace and the Lioness Gate.

The Acropolis: An absolute must, the Acropolis dominates the city of Athens. An important place of assembly and worship in ancient times.

Delphi: The second most visited site in Greece after the Acropolis, it was the heart of Greek civilisation for nearly a millennium. Allow a full day to explore the site from top to bottom. By car, it takes about two hours from Athens.

The Monasteries of Meteora: Located in northern Greece, the Monasteries of Meteora are a true incongruity in the landscape, yet find perfect harmony perched atop their high rocky peaks. A breathtaking site that's hard to miss, it offers a unique setting steeped in magic and history.

Islands

Crete: The largest island in Greece, is a charming land that offers everything a traveller could dream of. A crossroads of civilisations due to its strategic location, it preserves the legacy of the Minoans, Mycenaeans, Venetians, and Ottomans.

Santorini: Santorini is the most famous and visited island of the Cyclades. It's got it all: sublime volcanic sand beaches, breathtaking scenery and fascinating museums. Lovers of ancient history will enjoy a visit to the site of Akrotiri, which was frozen by the eruption of the volcano around 1,600 BC.

Serifos: Located not far from Athens and therefore easily accessible by boat, Serifos is a regular feature on Cyclades tours. Despite its location, it is one of the wildest islands in the archipelago. So you can bask in peace and quiet on one of its 72 beaches and coves.

Mykonos: Mykonos is known for its warm hospitality, vibrant nightlife and unique blend of traditional Greek charm and cosmopolitan ambience.
But it has much more to offer, including majestic scenery. Its beaches are magnificent, and a stroll through its capital, Chora, is a real treat.

Delos: Your trip to the Greek islands isn't be complete without a visit to Delos, home to one of the world's most important and remarkable archaeological sites: the Sanctuary of Apollo.

Naxos: Naxos' large size makes it a great place for hiking. There are ample opportunities for exploration by foot, notably on the Tragea Plateau. During your walk, stop at the Kouros statue in Menales. Wander through the island's central region to discover the charming little villages of Halki, Moni and Filoti, the "path of churches"

Cities and towns

Athens: Celebrated for its world-famous ancient treasures, Athens has also become one of Europe's most exciting cities to visit, filled with creativity and a vibrant food and drink scene.
The Acropolis tops most lists of things to do in Athens. It's the eternal symbol of the city and its most recognisable landmark. A tour of the Acropolis brings you face to face with the Parthenon, dedicated to the goddess Athena, who gave the city its name. You'll also witness the Erechtheion, known for its elegant Caryatids (female figures replacing traditional columns), and the small but striking Temple of Athena Nike - other hallmarks of the general Pericles, who master-minded the transformation of Athens during its 5th century BC Golden Age.

Thessaloniki: Greece's second city is unlike anywhere else in the country, being both a sprawling urban centre and a cultural melting pot. Its history is written upon everything that surrounds you, with ancient monuments (Greek and Roman) found amongst buildings that tell the story of the city's more recent Byzantine, Ottoman and Jewish influences. There's a youthful energy, day and night, with hidden treasure around every corner: historic cafes, cosy bars and clubs with impressive designs in renovated industrial spaces that host live rock concerts. Thessaloniki's nightlife is legendary in Greece. If in doubt, follow the locals to their favourite haunts.

Heraklion: The Archaeological Museum of Heraklion is home to one of the world's most significant collections of Minoan artefacts. Exhibits bring to life a civilisation that flourished more than 3,000 years ago. The museum sets the perfect context for your visit to the Palace of Knossos, just a few kilometres from the city.
Families will find plenty of things to do in Heraklion and Crete generally. Away from the beach, kids can enjoy waterparks and kid-focused cultural activities like mythology tours, as well as visit the Natural History Museum of Crete and the Museum of Ancient Greek Technology.

Piraeus: Piraeus is a bustling port and an intriguing destination in its own right, inviting visitors to explore its markets, bars, squares, yacht marinas and gourmet restaurants, as well as the local hangouts where impromptu bouzouki evenings bring back the spirit of the fifties and sixties. Exploring the coast and lively side streets, you will find seafood restaurants and bars with an island feel, pockets of neoclassical buildings and spice-filled bazaars. The largest of three natural bays, Athens' port houses a cruise liner terminal. And just around the coast, the atmosphere changes in the charming seaside neighbourhoods of Microlimano and Pasalimani, with pockets of neoclassical buildings, bars and excellent seafood tavernas.

THE BLACK LADY OF BRADLEY WOODS

TUCKED away in Lincolnshire, England is the small village of Bradley. This village might at first seem obscure, when studying a map of England, but the surrounding woods boasts of an old legend.

A woman clothed in black; pale, stricken, her eyes teary. She's young and pretty. Rather harmless, other than the fact that she is a ghost.

The Black Lady of Bradley Woods is viewed as a harmless apparition. Many have encountered her throughout the last few centuries. Many have seen the salt in her eyes, the flow of her black robes. However, who was the Black Lady when she was alive?

Several theories exist as to her identity. One theory states she was a nun at a nearby convent in Nunsthorpe. This explains her black clothing, but why would she be haunting the Bradley woods and not her convent? Why would she be so downcast in the afterlife?

Another theory states she was a spinster who lived in seclusion in a cottage in Bradley. Some even suggest she practiced witchcraft, which would explain her seclusion and grief. But, we're missing a very important detail here. If the Black Lady is the ghost of a witch, where is the ghost of her black cat?

... And lastly, the most famous and interesting of the stories includes more detail in the history of the Black Lady. During the War of the Roses, a woodsman, his wife, and child lived in a cottage in the woods outside Bradley.

The woodsman was recruited as a soldier in the army of the Earl of Yarborough. Time passed as the wife waited, with her baby in hand, for her woodsman husband to return.

She waited in their lonely cottage in the woods, as so many damsels in so many fairytales, but this story was not to have a happy ending. The enemy army soon advanced onto the village. She tried to escape with her baby, but her flight was interrupted by three cavalrymen.

She was raped and abandoned in the woods, with the cavalrymen taking her baby from her. She was disgraced in the tragedy and went on to search for her family, even after her soul moved on into the afterlife.

And, as the legend finishes, many people in Bradley believe that if you go into the woods on Christmas Eve you can summon the ghost of the Black Lady with a simple chant.

Much like Bloody Mary, all you need to say to make her appear is, "Black lady, black lady, I've stolen your baby." Repeat this line three times, and she will appear.

Quick Chicken Korma

GRIDDLING the chicken before adding it to the sauce gives this simple chicken korma an irresistible smokiness.

Ingredients

For the chicken

- 4 boneless, skinless chicken thighs, trimmed of excess fat and quartered
- ½ tsp ground turmeric
- 1 tbsp lime or lemon juice
- 2 tsp rapeseed or sunflower oil
- ½ tsp fine sea salt

For the sauce

- 2 tbsp sunflower oil or 1 tbsp ghee
- 1 tsp cumin seeds
- 1 medium onion, very finely chopped
- 4 garlic cloves, finely chopped
- 2 tsp finely grated fresh root ginger
- ½ x 400g can chopped tomatoes, blended until smooth (alternatively use passata)
- 1 tsp tomato purée
- 1 tsp ground turmeric
- 1 heaped tsp garam masala
- ¼ tsp hot chilli powder
- 75g/2¾oz ground almonds
- 300ml/½ pint full-fat milk
- ½ tsp coarsely ground black pepper
- freshly cooked rice and fresh coriander, to serve.

Method

1 Put the chicken thighs in a bowl with the turmeric, lime or lemon juice, oil and salt. Toss together well and set aside for 10 minutes.

2 To make the sauce, heat the oil or ghee in a saucepan and add the cumin seeds. Once they start to sizzle, add the chopped onion, garlic and ginger and cook gently for 5–6 minutes over a low heat, or until well softened, stirring regularly.

3 Tip the tomatoes and tomato purée into the pan and cook for another 2 minutes, stirring. Next, stir in the turmeric, garam masala, chilli powder, black pepper and a teaspoon of salt. Add the ground almonds and milk and cook on a low heat for 10 minutes, or until thickened, stirring regularly.

4 While the sauce is cooking, heat a griddle pan or heavy-based frying pan. Cook the chicken pieces for 8–10 minutes, or until lightly browned and cooked through, turning occasionally.

5 Add the chicken to the sauce, cover loosely and simmer gently together for 5–6 minutes, stirring regularly. It's important to cover the pan as the sauce will splatter a little as it cooks. If it becomes too thick, add a splash of water. If you have time, leave the curry to stand for 30 minutes before serving, then reheat gently. Serve with rice on the side and fresh coriander scattered over.

Prep: 30mins Cook: 30mins to 1 hour Serves: 4

HAUNTED LINCOLN

WITH so much history surrounding Lincoln, it's no surprise that the city is the subject of a number of spinetingling ghost stories.

Once home to medieval beheadings, cold blooded murder and capital punishment, Lincoln is haunted by a somewhat gruesome past. Dare to explore the city after dark, and you may well come across some of the bloody victims who continue to roam the cobbled streets today...

Lincoln Cathedral

1. Lincoln Cathedral

First built in 1072, Lincoln Cathedral has been at the centre of a great number of tragedies. One of the most damaging events in Lincoln's history was the bubonic plague. In 1349, the Black Death swept over Lincoln, completely overwhelming the city's residents.

As the population decreased so rapidly, the space for corpses became limited. The church couldn't keep up with the amount of people that needed to be blessed and buried.

As the death toll continued to increase, the bodies were piled up and given a mass burial on the grounds to the right of the cathedral.

On the anniversary of the burial, it is said that the ghosts rise from the grave and march to the cathedral, singing for salvation. As their bodies were unable to be blessed, it is believed that their spirits remain in purgatory, trapped between heaven and hell.

2. The Struggler's Inn

Located opposite Lincoln Castle, The Struggler's Inn was the pub that prisoners were traditionally taken to for a last drink before they were hanged. One of the men who was brought to the inn was William Clarke, a poacher who was sentenced to death for murdering a local gamekeeper.

As he took his last drink, Clarke was accompanied by his faithful dog, who was soon to be left homeless and alone. Taking pity on the loyal lurcher, the landlord of the pub gave him a home, where it lived for the rest of its life. When the dog died, the devastated landlord had it stuffed and displayed in the bar until he himself passed away. It is thought that the dog's ghost still resides at The Strugglers today, and can often be heard scratching and barking at the door.

3. Hobbson's Pie Shop

Situated on Steep Hill, the building that houses Hobbson's Pie Shop dates back to 1649. There have been several occupants of this building over the years, but only one who keeps returning.

A young boy called Humphrey is thought to haunt the building, and has been known to cause quite a lot of mischief when he's ignored. So much so, that the staff at Brown's have to now greet him when entering the restaurant to acknowledge his presence - when someone once failed to say hello, a knife was thrown across the floor.

Both staff and visitors have also reported hearing strange noises in the restaurant; one person even commented on seeing a child running around the tables… but there were no children in the restaurant that night…

4. The Lawn

The Lawn was first opened in 1820, as a hospital for people suffering from mental illness. Although the hospital closed in 1985, there are often sightings of ghostly figures still roaming the grounds, looking lost.

Former inmates, including children, are often spotted wandering around the building, appearing to search for something unknown. More sad than scary, the sounds of crying are said to emanate from the walls. Upon arrival, many visitors have also experienced overwhelming feelings of sadness.

5. The Lion and the Snake

Thought to be the oldest pub in the city, there are at least three ghosts in the Lion and the Snake. The 'Granny With The Bun' is the most famous, having resided in the pub for over 30 years. Thought to be a former landlady, she is regularly seen upstairs in the living quarters.

Staff have often seen the ghost of a dishevelled old man, enjoying a drink at the bar. Not to be disturbed, when approached, the gentleman appears to get up and dissolve into the walls.

Nowhere is safe to sit in the Lion and Snake… down in the cellar, there is also thought to be the ghost of a Roman soldier. Much shyer than the pub's other spooky residents, he is rarely seen but often heard - many people believe they have heard the sounds of marching soldiers and chariots whilst visiting the pub.

Mercedes - AMG CLE Coupé CLE 53

THE MERCEDES CLE is a fantastic coupe, but it really missed having a performance model - until now.

The CLE 53 is, so far, the fastest version of this slinky two-door, and while it's not as hardcore as Mercedes-AMG's full-fat '63' models it's still powerful, great to drive, and oh-so-desirable. It's a bit like a nice dinner jacket and smart jeans - you're still making an effort, but you don't have to suffer in a stuffy collar and tie.

The CLE 53 occupies an interesting spot, being faster and more powerful than a BMW M440i but slower and less hardcore than a full-fat BMW M4. You could also compare it to the BMW M2, which has similar power and performance but is a physically much smaller and less luxurious car.

You can easily distinguish the CLE 53 from its standard CLE sibling just by looking at it. The front end is marked out with a new front bumper and AMG's signature 'Panamerica' grille, while the whole car is significantly wider thanks to fatter wheels and extended arches. There's a large rear spoiler and a restyled bumper, too. The effect is great - the CLE 53 looks fantastic without being too over-the-top. You'll stand out in traffic, but you won't be embarrassed to turn up to a sombre occasion in it.

The heart of the CLE 53 is its 3.0-litre, six-cylinder engine. It's a tuned and fettled version of the six-cylinder engine you get in the top version of the standard CLE. Regardless, it produces a whopping 449hp, sent to all four wheels, and so 0-62mph takes just 4.2 seconds - before going on to a top speed of 155mph.

To drive, the CLE 53 feels great. It's not as beefed-up and steroidal as a BMW M4, which means it's still comfortable enough to take on long journeys. But when you get onto a good, twisty road, it comes alive - with fluid responses, sharp steering and enough communication with the driver to be quite good fun. It's not as lairy as a BMW M4, though, and you do feel the car's substantial weight when you're trying to change direction quickly.

YOUR HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Embark on a long-planned renovation or change your dressing style. Also, at work, you will be full of original ideas and thanks to that, you will become the centre of attention. Your open mind will help you listen to your heart, and finally, your feelings will be clarified.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

During this period, you will be very charismatic, and you will become a favourite among people. Communication will be your strong point, and you will definitely not miss the empathy, thanks to which you will build a deeper bond with some of your friends.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

This autumn month will bring a rush of creativity and courage into the lives of Gemini. You can use them to fulfill plans that you have had in your head for a long time, but it was never the right time to implement them. In addition, it is a good time to rush into repairs to the house, for example.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

You will have very prompt reactions and good arguments, which will dazzle not only your co-workers, but practically everyone will eat out of your hand. During this period, you will become an intellectual whose speeches will always make sense.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

If you do not have a partner, go with your intuition and feelings, which will play a big role in your actions during this period. This autumn month will also awaken your spiritual perception. Therefore, go for new knowledge, or visit a thematic seminar, where you can also learn meditation techniques.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

At this time, you will focus mainly on yourself. You have a lot of unresolved questions that need to be closed, and this period will be perfect for that. You will also be inclined to alternative directions, so don't be afraid to go in the opposite direction, where you will learn new things.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Librans will find their inner balance. This will be an excellent time for self-realisation, and the best thing to do is to make time for yourself and enjoy some alone time. You need to go through your thoughts, and for that, you need privacy. - a stay in nature would make you feel good.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Scorpios will be full of empathy and will have amazing communication skills. People around you will feel your support and will ask you for help if they need it. Also, you will give an impression of a very calm and balanced person, which will help you both at work and in your private life.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Sagittarians will often be overwhelmed by a desire for harmony. You will feel completely balanced, and you will be able to transfer the feeling of peace to others, and therefore, you will probably be with your colleagues.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Capricorns will prefer loneliness and deep thoughts. You will often reflect on the meaning of life and analyse your relationships with others. This could lead to a desire to meet new people. You will hope to find the right partner or a friend among them.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Aquarians should be careful at work because their boss might try to prove that you're doing something wrong. So show him/her that even though you are taking everything with humour, you are still perfect at work. You will also be open to changes in ways of thinking.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Stop and realise that you don't need to hurry so much and that it is not productive to do many things at once. Re-evaluate your priorities and decide what you want to focus on fully, and postpone the rest. It is important to rest enough this month; otherwise, you could have migraines.
